Your recent letter to Mr. Dulles regarding your interest in future employment with the Central Intelligence Agency has been referred to this office for reply. We are pleased to learn of your interest in our organization.

The enclosed brochure describes our general requirements for employment. We do not suggest specific courses to interested students both because we can use individuals with academic training in a number of fields and because we cannot predict our specific needs several years in advance. The types of college background which are usually of interest to us are generally qualifying for other career fields as well.

Thank you for writing to us. If your interest continues, we shall be glad to hear from you again when you have completed your schooling.

Sincerely,

Dear Mr. Dulles:

I will try to make this letter as brief as possible because I know you must be a very busy man.

I am fifteen years old and in the tenth grade

STAT

I have consistently been on the honor roll and hope to stay there.

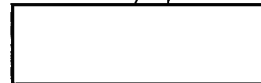

I have read extensively about your organization, the CIA, and have recently thought of it along the lines of a career.

The main purpose of this letter is to ask you to send me, if you possibly could, some literature about your organization. The big questions in my mind are what courses to take in college and how to prepare myself in other ways for the qualifications one must meet to be a member of the CIA.

I realize that the information I ask for will take up some of your precious time, but this means a great deal to me and I will be deeply grateful for any effort you may put forth to my requests.

Yours very truly,

/s/
